

Which BATHMATE pump do I need for my penis size?

Different people have different needs and requirements, especially when it comes to penis pumps. We want to please everyone, so we offer Bathmate models that are suitable for any penis size.

It is important to choose a hydro pump that is suitable for your size. A model that is too large will lose effectiveness, as the pump will not be able to generate the ideal pressure, while models that are too small can be uncomfortable and ineffective.

Here is a step-by-step guide on how to find the perfect Bathmate product for you. Once you know your size, you can get an overview of the powerful hydro pumps from our range in the corresponding category!

To get the most benefits from your BATHMATE pump, it is important to use the correct pump size. To properly measure your penis size, simply follow the instructions below.

How to measure your penis size:

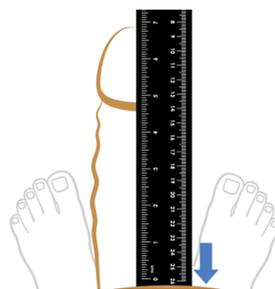

It's not that easy to accurately measure your penis, especially when it comes to girth.

Step 1: Get your penis erect

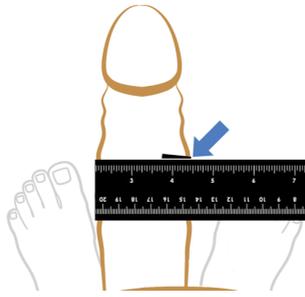

You need to be fully erect to measure the size accurately to make sure you choose the right BATHMATE size.

Step 2: Measure penis length

Measure your penis length when erect with a ruler pressed lightly on your pubic bone, measuring from the bone to the tip of the penis.

Step 3: Measure the circumference of the penis

Wrap a tape measure or piece of string around your penis and note the total circumference.

Depending on the penis size you can choose between the following BATHMATE models:
